Experience of a PISCES core stakeholder

Christian Saint-Jalmes Commission Environnement FNPPSF

CAN. 57

Who am I?

 A retired teacher living in Loctudy (SW Brittany) -Sailing instructor at 14. Owner of different boats : dinghies, sailboards and now a 26 ft cruiser. •Whenever possible, sail to Brasil, the West Indies or to the Atlantic Islands. Responsible for the Environment Department of FNPPSF (Federation of French Anglers), part of EAA.

FNPPSF

•The biggest sea anglers association in France : nearly 30,000 members.

A magazine : « Pêche-Plaisance »

 Teaching materials to promote ethical fishing : respect of landing sizes, fishing periods and quantities.

Angling schools for children.

Very active departments : environment, angling, safety, marina management and equipment, etc.

Why PISCES?

- •At last an opportunity to have a say.
- •Also an opportunity to know and listen to other stakeholders, from France and other countries.
- •PISCES is new approach, participative and reactive, global an fair to every sector.
- •PISCES is beyond any lobbying.
- •Even if some of PISCES recommendations appear to be utopic, they are to the point and will eventually make people think and act.

The French Celtic Sea

- •The French part of the Celtic sea is very rich and varied: PISCES
 - Industries, farming, fishing,tourism, angling.
 - Active towns and harbours.
 - No real dialogue and cooperation between stakeholders: Western Channel

Some teething problems :

Important pollution: • Pig and chicken farms, Garden and domestic wastes, Biocides in antifouling paints & agriculture Overfishing and poaching. Very important maritime traffic. No real cooperation between France, Great Britain and Ireland.

What benefits ?

Dialogue between stakeholders with PISCES as a mediator.

•Better understanding of the complex interests at stake.

•PISCES' synthesis promotes a much-needed cooperation between nations.

•All this gives everybody a chance to live in harmony in a better environment.

Wishful thinking?

 To see and hear more professional fishermen take part in PISCES.

•To have a version the guide simplified and condensed so as to be more accessible ad widespread.

•To see PISCES more present in the media (national and local papers, radio and TV, magazines, Internet, forums...)
